Journey

I relate so much to the notion of journey. In work. In community. In family life. Journey to the heart of. Journey to the intersecting edges, like this photo above near where I live in Lindon, Utah. Valley meets mountains. Rural meets urban.

Journey is a theme woven to all of what I get to do with leadership development and team-building. It means growing the relational muscle to participate in a mystery, and to contribute to an evolution of who we are as people individually and together.

Enjoy the resources here. A couple of blog posts. A couple of podcast listens. And thank you for real consideration to register for a 16 month leadership journey and rite of passage, Fire & Water. Participation is through application and registration, open through July 31, 2021.
